How This Retainer Works

1. The client funds the retainer and either participant may record the initial payment proof.
2. The service provider submits invoices against the retainer as work is completed.
3. If an invoice keeps the remaining balance at or above the floor, no additional payment is requested.
4. If an invoice would reduce the balance below the floor, the invoice includes a replenishment request.
5. Either participant may initiate termination. Once termination begins, the service provider submits a final invoice and the agreement closes after final settlement is recorded.
