Working Cycle

1. The service provider signs first and the client countersigns.
2. The client funds the retainer for the first time and submits initial payment proof.
3. While work is in progress, the service provider periodically submits invoices against the retainer.
4. If the remaining balance stays above the floor, the service provider uses Submit Invoice.
5. If the remaining balance would fall below the floor, the service provider uses Submit Invoice With Topup.
6. Either party can initiate termination from the active working states, which moves the agreement into the final invoice closeout flow.
7. The service provider submits the final invoice, the client can dispute it, and the service provider settles it by providing final payment proof.
